Navigating Foster Care and College

Navigating Foster Care and College

Many students with experience in foster care have to navigate multiple complex systems to access and achieve success in higher education.

“It is a curious reality that societies most vulnerable youth, those who have suffered abuse or neglect and have never known consistent, permanent, nurturing adult relationships, are asked to be self sufficient at a time when other youth are still receiving parental support in college or are experimenting with their first jobs from within the safe confines of a family.”

-Wendy Whiting Blome (1997)

Family Privilege

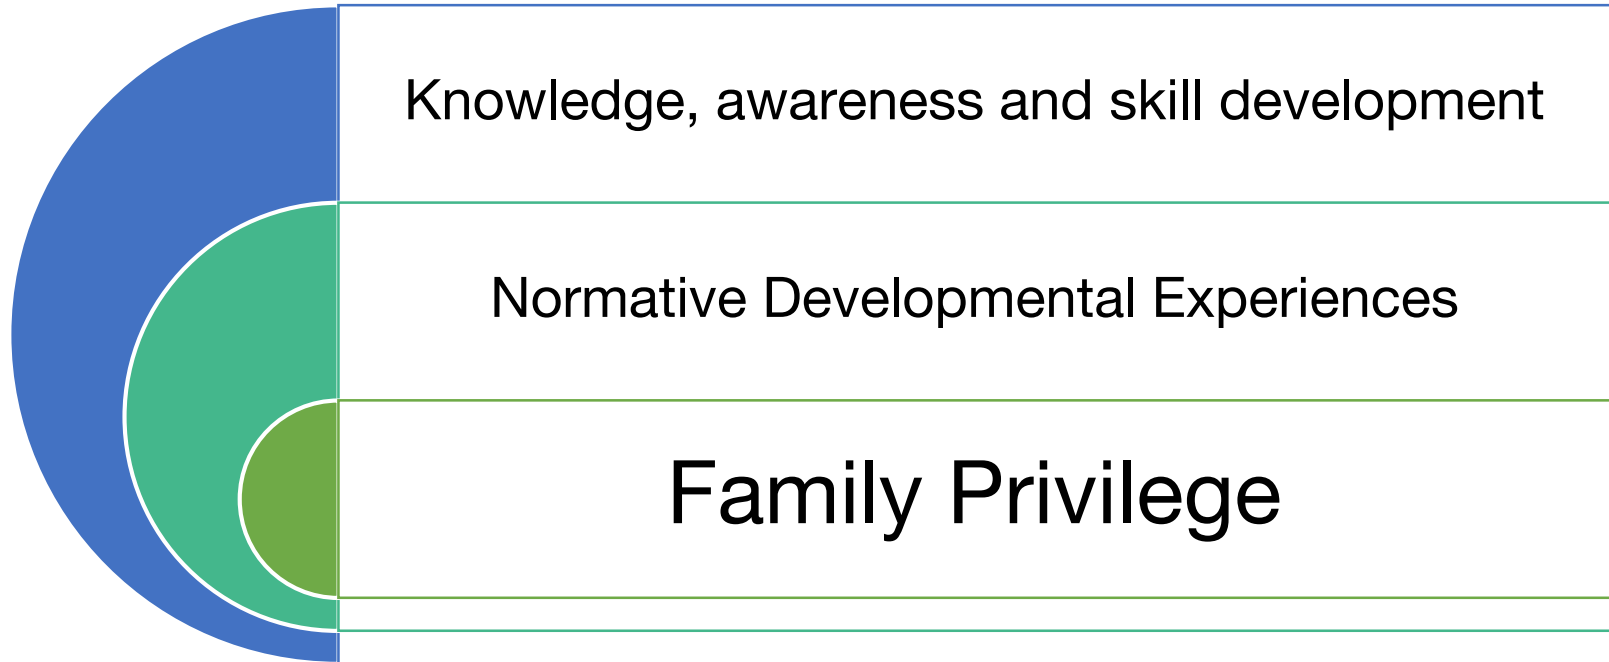

Coined by John Seita (2001) to describe the often-unnoticed benefits that stem from being the member of a stable family

Examples

Exposure Gaps

Missing knowledge, personal insights, and life skills that carry into adulthood as a result of the experience of foster care

Typical Childhood Development

Required Conditions:

- Family privilege
- Culturally and developmentally appropriate experiences
- Opportunity to fail and take risks safely

Experience of Foster Care

Common Conditions:

1. Lack of family privilege
2. Missing typical childhood experiences
3. Instability
4. Failing equals danger

Addressing Exposure Gaps

Best Practices:

1. Teach, don't just tell
2. Check in versus assume
3. Bridge gaps through building knowledge, awareness, and skill

Exposure Gaps Key Takeaways

- Family privilege is not likely to be replaced by professionals
- To bridge exposure gaps, create experiences

Don't just tell,
TEACH

Implementation of a Mentoring Program

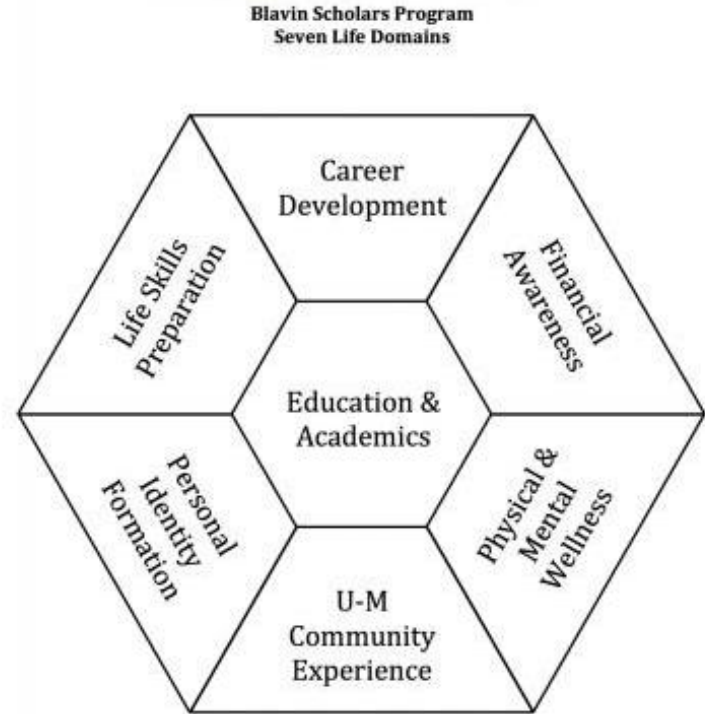

Why Mentoring?

- Majority of youth indicate they have too few adults they can rely on
- Provides opportunities to have safe experiences and build social capital
- Provides different but often synergistic support along with formal program staff support

Mentoring Program: Phase 1

- Determine program structure (holistic and student-centered)
- Finalize a proposed budget and secure funding (if any)
- Create application or interest process
- Recruit mentors
- Prepare and conduct training

Adapted from Casey Family Programs (2006) It's My Life framework and the Fostering Success Coaching 7 Life Domains.

Apply to be a Blavin Mentor Today!

We are looking for U-M Faculty and Staff from a variety of fields, experiences, and interests to serve as mentors to current and incoming Blavin Scholars. The mentor match relationship is a mutual one-to-one relationship between a U-M faculty or staff member and a Blavin Scholars mentee. Blavin Mentors compliment the support offered by the Blavin Scholars Program and Staff by serving as an additional supportive adult and resource in their mentee's life.

BLAVIN SCHOLARS MENTOR PROGRAM

HOW YOU CAN SUPPORT A BLAVIN SCHOLAR

The Highlight of the Blavin Scholars Program is the Blavin Mentor Program that matches each Blavin Scholar with a University of Michigan faculty or staff member to offer additional support and guidance throughout a scholar's time at the U-M. Many Blavin Scholars and Blavin Mentors have referenced their experience with the Blavin Mentor Program as one of their most meaningful experiences at U-M!

Mentor Program Assessment

I really appreciate the training that was held at the beginning of the semester that informed us of the possible “triggers” that could potentially create barriers in our communication and rapport building with our mentee. I feel that it gave me a lot more to be mindful of as I strive to be that leader/extended family and trusted point of contact for my mentee. Thank you!

Mentor Program Assessment

The overall quality of the program was good. (30 responses)

Mentor Program Assessment

The mentoring program had a meaningful impact.

Mentor Program Assessment

The mentoring program was useful for students.

Mentor Program Assessment

Those pairs who met more frequently face-to-face (at least once a month or more) had higher satisfaction ratings with the mentoring experience.

Benefits of a Mentor Program

- Expands the network of support for students
- Provides additional role models and social capital to support goal achievement
- Together formal staffing, mentors, and students partner together to navigate college and achieve success

A Few Words of Advice

- Budget. You can create a mentoring program on any budget or not budget at all.
- Training. Training is a critical component of setting your mentors up for success.
- Make It Your Own. Every program will be slightly different based on campus climate, program resources, and students' needs.
- Time Together Matters. Any relationship requires time together. Emphasize the importance of your mentor pairs spending time together on a regular basis.
